With Richmond one run to the good in the opening of the final round at the Broad Street grounds yesterday afternoon, Cumming, Norfolk's big right-fielder and pitcher, patted out a beautiful two-bagger, with Pankey on second, base for tender, and after taking third on the throw in, came home with the winning tally at a moment later. A perfectly worked squeeze play with Rutland at bat. Final score, 3 to 2, in favor of the rejuvenated crew.

It was a hard game for Mike Cassidy to lose, and the failure on the part of the team to sink the ship with the renovated hull cannot be laid to any particular cause. True, if Wallace had thought a little quicker in handling Rutland's fly in the seventh, when Cumming started home from second, he might have avoided it easily and stayed out of that first inning, but the center-fielder has not been in the game for some time, and though it can be safely said that the inability to grasp the occasion was finally responsible for Norfolk's first run, it was excusable and did not really lose the game for the locals. The game was won by the visitors and not lost by the Colts. It was that daring steal on the squeeze play by Cumming that settled the question, and a beautiful throw by Pankey which gave Pender his base, which afterwards resulted in a score when Cumming brought the runner home on his two-bagger.

Team Played Well.
Up to the seventh inning, with the exception of an error by Count O'Neill, which had no fatal results, the entire Richmond team played gilt-edged ball. Only in the third and the sixth did a visitor land on the sacks, the batters working either mowed down or hit on strikes, or being made to pop easy assists to the fielders. The man in the third landed when O'Neill misjudged, and Cassidy himself was responsible for Seltz getting his base on a pass in the sixth. Cassidy fanned six men, to Jordan's three, and each gave a knock-out first. In the seventh, three Norfolk players found Mike's twist for the first three hits of the game, and for Norfolk's first tally. In the ninth, it was one hit was made, but that was the slasher for two batters by Cumming, which turned the tide and pushed the crew off the shoals.

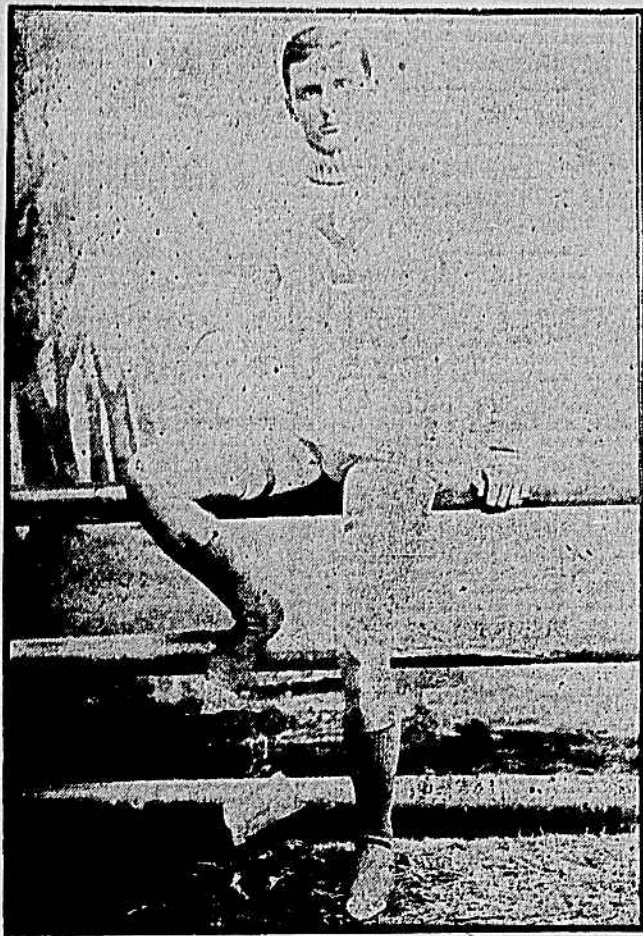

How Runs Were Scored.
For three rounds neither side could find the route around the circuit. But in the fourth, Rowe slipped too big, and on Heffron's suicide, and third on Wallace's hit to short. Both ended across the man when O'Neill hit to center, and that worthy lot it to long enough for the little second sacker to reach third. Kirk had fouled to Edwards, and Shaffer's error from short to first retired the side and ended Richmond's scoring. Norfolk's manner of scoring for three runs has been accounted for.

OPPORTUNE HITS WIN FOR CHAMPS

Timely Singles by Hooker, Bentley and Evans Defeat the Leaders.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, Va., June 6.—Lynchburg won one of the looest, and yet one of the most interesting games of the season this afternoon from Danville, the score being 3 to 2. Oakley and Lavender engaged in a mighty pitchers' battle, up to the eighth, but Lavender weakened in that inning and lost his game.

Danville scored only in the fourth, the two runs being the result of errors by Holt, Evans and Bowen, and a stolen base. The locals scored in the sixth by Hooker being hit, two passed balls, and a single by Anthony.

In the eighth the game was won on singles by Hooker, Bentley and Evans, and an error by Reggie Evans's single, to left driving in both tallies. The score:

O'NEIL TO PLAY WITH LYNCHBURG

Advises from Lynchburg, in which Manager Grim of that club states that he has secured Count O'Neill and will find a berth at third or second for him. O'Neill is a first-class player and has made this deal. He is expected to join the Colts in Lynchburg last Wednesday, but for some reason failed to do so. However, when he does finally arrive he will take up his duties at the second corner for the locals.

Lynchburg will undoubtedly be greatly strengthened by the deal, as O'Neill has not a peer, unless it is Shaffer, in the Virginia League as an infielder. His team work with Reeve in pulling off double plays has been very noticeable, and his handling of difficult chances to have often evoked the admiration of the fans. O'Neill's slick work has also been of high class. He is a player who has slumped badly in sticking, but recently he has apparently recovered his batting eye, and has been doing nicely. And don't forget that it was his hit which scored Richmond's two runs yesterday afternoon.

President Boyer Here.
President Charles Boyer, of the South Atlantic, who was in the city for one day in Richmond yesterday afternoon, and was an interested spectator at the Norfolk-Colt game. Mr. Boyer has been in the city on business connected with his league. He was very favorably impressed with the Thursday crowd which turned out for his and other Virginia cities. He stated that there has been a great dearth of experienced men this year, and that one of his clubs is sorely in need of a center. He did not say whether or not he had managed to secure any new men.

Wallopers Turn Tables.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINCHESTER, Va., June 6.—Before one of the largest crowds ever seen at Reservoir Park, the Winchester base-balls club defeated the Walbrook Athletic Club of Baltimore, by a score of 2 to 1. Batteries—Winchester—Clarke and Woodward. Walbrook—Howard and Rowe.

Notes of the Game

The game the visitors put up yesterday should allay all suspicion that the Colts did such a foolish thing as to throw the ones in Norfolk on their last trip there.

Umpire Byron made his first appearance in Richmond yesterday, and though he was rather close in one or two of his opinions, he impressed the majority of those present as not serving all the harsh things said of him in the other towns. But, then, it's hard to lose, and the umpire is the easiest one to blame for it.

There was much discussion as to whether or not Shaffer should have had at least one of the errors credited to him at Kirkpatrick. Both were almost impossible balls to get and had Kirkpatrick thrown them, he would have been given them over in his usual good style. However, as it was, they were palpably not misuses of Shaffer.

Cowan started the game at centre, but after Norfolk had been retired in the first and second innings, he was moved to first base. Shaffer thought it best to let Wallace have the base, as he was a new player, and Wallace's stick came in handy later on.

One questionable piece of work which Byron did was his calling Wallace out in the sixth, when the big fielder struck wide at a ball so Heffron could steal second. If contrary the umpire was supposed to play than the spectators, but it appeared as though Wallace did not step out of the batter's box, and he was called out. It is possible that he had been retired for except interfering with the throw to second, which he apparently was not guilty of.
